

About the National Science and Technology Council

The National Science and Technology Council (NSTC) was established by Executive Order on November 23, 1993. This Cabinet-level council is the principal means by which the President coordinates science, space, and technology policies across the Federal government. NSTC coordinates the diverse parts of the

F